Other applicants may be admitted upon passing such examinations as the President shall prescribe, and being found, in the opinion of the President, of equal attainment to persons entitled to such certificate.

RULES OF ADMINISTRATION.

(ADOPTED BY THE FACULTY, APRIL 16, 1904,

AND

APPROVED BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, APRIL 22, 1904.)

RULES OF ADMINISTRATION,
COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT,
CLARK UNIVERSITY,

ADOPTED BY FACULTY, APRIL 16, 1904.

I. FACULTY MEETINGS.

Regular faculty meetings shall be held the Thursday before the fourth Friday of each month of the academic year. Special meetings may be held whenever the faculty or President may appoint. A special meeting shall be called by the secretary of the faculty whenever a written request to do so is presented to him signed by three members of the faculty.

II. COMMITTEES.

The President shall appoint such standing and special committees of the faculty as he shall deem necessary.

III. REGISTRATION.

Every student is expected to register on the first day of each academic year.

Changes in registration for the second semester must be reported to the Dean at the end of the Christmas recess, and final arrangement of courses, if different from the first semester, must be filed before the second semester opens.

IV. ATTENDANCE.

Each student is expected to be present at every exercise of his course, and is responsible for his attendance in each subject to the instructor in that subject.

It shall be the duty of each instructor to report at each monthly faculty meeting the individual record of each student in his courses. This report on the work of each individual student shall include a statement of the exact number of absences of the student, to which shall be added an estimate by the instructor reporting of the value and significance of such delinquencies.

V. RECORD OF STUDENTS' STANDING.

The success or failure of students shall be recorded on their subject cards in the Dean's office at the end of each year, or on the completion of a subject. This record shall be made in ink by the respective instructors in such a way as to indicate most characteristically each instructor's degree of approval.

Each student's card shall be open at all times to his own inspection and to that of any instructor. Each student is expected to maintain a constant interest in the current results of his work, and it shall be the unremitting aim of instructors to place every emphasis upon correct habits of work such as can be assured only by the best daily effort of which the student is capable.

It shall be the duty of the Dean to record on the back of the subject cards, under date of their occurrence, all votes or recommendations of the faculty regarding students, including action on petition from students; and it shall further be his duty to report at once to the student these acts of the faculty. When such report is a warning or declaration of probation, it shall be accompanied by a written statement to the student showing the exact intent of the faculty.

VI. EXAMINATIONS.

No part of the academic year shall be devoted to preparation for examinations by the general omission of regular college exercises. Examinations and reviews may be held as a part of the method of instruction. In examinations, as in other exercises of any course, the instructor is expected so to regulate the time requirements made of students as to avoid all encroachment upon other courses.

VII. ADVANCED STANDING.

Admission to advanced standing for the bachelor's degree shall be upon such conditions as the faculty shall deem necessary to satisfy themselves that the candidate completes the equivalent of some group, and in no case shall a student be admitted as a candidate for the bachelor's degree on residence at the college of less than one year.

Students applying for advanced standing must present good reasons for leaving the college from which their credentials come; they must present such credits as they can, all of which shall be subject to verification by the character of the work done in this college in such a period of probation as the faculty shall decide upon in each case.

VIII. SPECIAL STUDENTS.

There may be admitted as special students such persons as show an earnest desire to pursue particular studies, but who, on account of age or for other reasons, are not eligible for admission as regular students, such persons to pay the full tuition fee and be subject to the rules governing regular students, but not to be considered as candidates for a degree.

IX. ADVISERS.

Upon entrance to the college each student shall be assigned to an adviser, to whose advisory group he shall belong during his undergraduate residence at the college, unless transferred for good reason.

It shall be the duty of advisers to keep duplicates of the subject cards of the students constituting their advisory groups, which shall be kept corrected by comparison with the official cards. It shall be incumbent upon advisers to familiarize themselves both with these records and with the work of their students in all subjects in anticipation of records.

To further this purpose it shall be the duty of advisers to acquaint themselves as soon and as persistently as possible with all the details of scholarship, all conditions, and all impediments of the students in their advisory groups. Careful scrutiny of all the office records of an adviser's students is a necessity of the advisory function.

X. CONTESTS WITH OTHER INSTITUTIONS.

(Adopted by the Faculty, February 2, 1903.)

Students of the college shall not engage in contests with the representatives of other institutions, nor in any public entertainment, excepting such as the faculty shall approve.

It was voted to adopt scarlet and white as the college colors, and that these colors be used paley, a white stripe between two red ones.
